

Transverse Ladybird (Coccinella transversalis)

This ladybird has raised its elytra (the hardened protective forewings), unfolded its membranous hindwings, and is showing its segmented abdomen. It is testing that its wings are in good condition before flight. Notice the beautiful structures of its tarsi (feet). R. Howard